GOLF HOLIDAYS 2007-2008

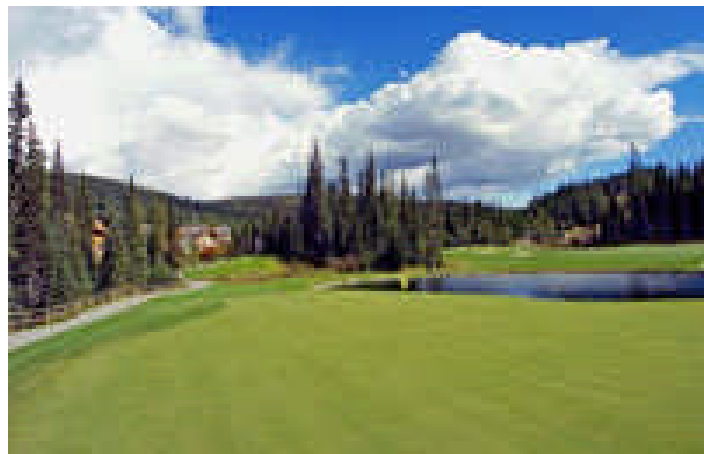

SUN PEAKS KAMLOOPS, BRITISH COLUMBIA

Imagine teeing off surrounded by the most stunning mountain scenery British Columbia has to offer. The Sun Peaks Golf Course, located just 45 minutes outside of Kamloops, is the highest resort course in Canada at well over 4000ft. The beautiful Sun Peaks resort opened in 1996 and golfers have been enjoying this challenging test of golf amidst the stunning alpine backdrop for over 10 years. The wonderful Graham Cooke design will test your accuracy and distance, but mostly your concentration due to the spectacular views.

This par 72 course is 6352 yards with a slope rating of 123, and an overall course rating of 72.4. The layout and design will make every golfer's experience at Sun Peaks unforgettable. The front nine holes are narrow and tree-lined; the more open back nine require accuracy and driving distance. While the higher elevation benefits players as golf balls travel farther than at sea level, it also means a shorter growing season. The elevation also creates some unique microclimates that often mean the greens are growing while still covered in snow! The grounds crew sometimes uses winter grooming machines and snowmobiles to remove snow and position green cutting equipment prior to opening each season, which is usually mid May. The course is closed from mid-October.

Course designer Graham Cooke and the local Sun Peaks crew spent 10 years perfecting the drainage system due to the prevalence of water in an alpine setting such as Sun Peaks. The team also took care to locate greens in such a way as to maximize the amount of direct sunlight over the shorter growing season.

McGillvray Creek winds quietly through the thick pine and spruce forest valley, which is home to alpine flowers and shrubs, deer, bear, coyotes, and many species of birds. They have worked hard to grow in harmony with nature, and we're certain that you'll enjoy your golf experience in the great outdoors at Sun Peaks.
